

ARREST OF POTTS EXPECTED AT ONCEPolice at Tucson, Ariz., Are Seeking Clerk.

BANK AMPLY PROTECTED

American National Suffers No Loss from Theft.

Collateral Worth $10,000 Is Taken, but Transfer Is Stopped by President Harper—Employee Also Bonded—Clew to Whereabouts Given by Telegram to Baltimore Bank, Which Lends Missing Man $3,500.

Word is momentarily expected from Tucson, Ariz., of the arrest there of E. H.
Potts, on a warrant issued in this city, charging him with the theft of five certificates of Erie Railroad stock from the American National Bank, where he was temporarily employed during the last two weeks in July. The warrant was sworn out yesterday by Robert N. Harper, president of the bank, based upon the fact that the securities are missing from the bank, and that a portion of them were pledged by Potts in a Baltimore bank as collateral for a loan.

Belief that Potts is in Tucson, Ariz., rests upon a message received from him at that point by the bank in Baltimore last Monday, in answer to a letter, forwarded to him from his home in Virginia.

The conduct of Potts, after taking the bonds and disposing of a portion of them, marks him as one of the coolest men ever engaged in the trade of wrong-doing.

About July 27 he left the bank, where he had taken the place of a clerk who was on his vacation, and it is assumed that some time within the previous two weeks he had taken the certificates of stock.

Applies for a Loan.

A few days later he applied to a bank in Baltimore for a loan of $3,500, offering two of the certificates as collateral. He stated to the bank president, with whom he was acquainted, that he intended to go into business in that city, and wanted to use the proceeds of the loan for that purpose. He deposited $500 with the bank as evidence of good faith, and then went to the home of his parents at Hillsboro, Va.

Potts remained about Hillsboro for five days, coming to Washington occasionally, and twice, at least, making the trip home on the same train with President Harper, with whom he conversed freely and in a confidential manner. On several occasions Casper L. Lynn, of the American Bank, also conversed with Potts. The young man appeared perfectly at ease and in excellent spirits. He spent his time in Virginia, going about openly from place to place, visiting well known families there.

On August 3 the stock market suddenly dropped four or five points. The next day the Baltimore bank called Potts' attention to the fact in a letter addressed to him at Hillsboro, Va., the address he had given. The bank wrote asking whether the stock should be sold, and at what price. The letter stated that if the stock was not sold he must make further deposit with the bank to cover the lower quotations in the New York market.

Telegrams to the Bank.

In the meantime Potts had left the home of his parents in Virginia, and the letter was forwarded to Tucson, Ariz.
He received the letter and sent a telegram in reply, dated last Sunday, stating that he would send an additional $1,000 as margin for the stock.

While these transactions were in progress the certificates were missed from the bank, on August 9, and President Harper immediately took steps to stop any use of the securities, either by sale or as collateral on loans. The loss was reported to the local police, and a circular sent out to all the national banks of the country, to many stock brokers, and other financial institutions. The circular, in brief, was that five 100-share certificates of Erie Railroad stock had been lost or stolen from the American National Bank. The certificates were described as follows: T2485, in the name of N. G. Campbell & Co.; T2485, T2486, and T2487, in the name of Arthur S.
Leland & Co., and T2488, in the name of Charles Minzenheimer & Co.

Bankers, brokers, financial agents, and others were requested to co-operate in locating the stock, and to notify the police if offered for sale or as collateral for loans. They were also requested to cause the arrest and detention, pending an investigation, of any one who should be found in possession of the certificates.

Get Copy of Circular.

A copy of this circular reached the bank in Baltimore last Tuesday morning, and the president immediately communicated with Maj. Sylvester, chief of the Washington police, and with President Harper, of the American National Bank, telling of the transaction with E. H. Potts. This was the first intimation the bank authorities had of the guilty party, and they were no less surprised when it was ascertained who had taken the securities than when they were discovered missing.

As frequently happens in such cases, Potts was an exemplary young man and a much trusted employee of the bank. He belongs to a highly esteemed family in Loudoun County, Va., the parents of the young man living at Hillsboro. As a boy, he was promising, and was well known both to President Harper and Cashier Lynn, of the American Bank. He is twenty-seven years old, a man of pleasing address, a good and accurate accountant.

About the time of his majority he was employed for two or three years in the Loudoun National Bank of Leesburg.
About three years ago, on account of

DUPONT FINED FOR SPEEDING.

Wilmington Millionaire Asks to Be Let Off with Light Fine.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 22.—Eugene Dupont, a millionaire, and sales agent of the Dupont powder trust, which the government is endeavoring to dissolve, was arraigned in the Wilmington municipal court to-day for violating the automobile speed laws.

He pleaded guilty and asked for light punishment, as it was his first offense.
Deputy Judge Joslyn was informed by Policeman Barr that the millionaire was running his racer twenty miles an hour on the streets of Wilmington.

A fine of $10 and costs was imposed, which the powder magnate promptly paid. Several members of the Dupont family have recently been fined here for auto speeding.

RIDE IN HAIL OF LEAD

Arabs Charge French Under a Scathing Fire.

"RED KAI" REFUSES TO RUN

Feet of Native Soldiers Believed Impossible Against Modern Weapons—Demonstrates Necessity for Training in Marksmanship—Cavalry Rides Close to Lines.

Casa Blanca, Aug. 22.—The feature of yesterday's attack was the reckless courage of the Arabs. It was the comparative inefficiency of the French fire.

Once during the night, a great horde of Arab horsemen, headed by a knight, crossed entirely in red, galloped against the French position over open country in close formation, ignoring all modern methods of attack. They formed a solid target for the gunners at a range of only 1,500 yards. Every gun on the war ships and ashore opened fire on them, and in a moment the valiant cavaliers were riding amid a torrent of bursting shells and shrapnel.

The ground around them seemed itself to be burning shells and throwing up missiles, but the phalanx came on, hardly losing a man or a horse.

Some of the shells fell short, others went wide, while still others went too far over their heads. At last, a big shell from the cruiser Gloire landed in the middle of the Arabs. It was the first telling shot of the hurricane. Many riders and horses fell. Some rose again and re-mounted, and others staggered away wounded. Not a few lay dead. Nevertheless the rest charged on. They came into a range at which the French infantry joined in pouring into them volley after volley from their rifles and mitrailuses, but notwithstanding this, they went on within 400 yards of the line without wavering.

Further effort was beyond their power.
Their horses were spent and many of them were ridden. The Moors had ridden nearly two miles under conditions that were supposed to be impossible against modern weapons. They turned and rode back to the others up the hill on their flank amid an unceasing hail of shrapnel and rifle bullets.

Their leader, the Red Kai, as the French named him, alone did not turn.
Seated upon a fine white horse, he fired calmly upon the French infantry, whose volleys fell in thousands around him, while shells and shrapnel burst over his head and around him, tearing up the ground, but not harming him.

At length he turned and rode slowly forward, amid the admiring cheers of his men.

MRS. TUCKER INTERESTED.

Would Know More of Husband's Visit to Raton, N. Mex.

"You bring us news, and I am glad to hear it," said Mrs. W. F. Tucker, last night, when shown a news dispatch from Raton, N. Mex., to the effect that her husband, Col. W. F. Tucker, and Mrs.
Myrtle B. Platt were both in that city.

This was echoed by Mrs. John A. Logan, her mother, and Lieut. Tucker, of the Marine Corps, son of Col. and Mrs. Tucker.

"I am glad you have this news," said Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Tucker, "and I hope you get it all; when they arrived, how long they have been there, what they are doing, and all about it. Then people will find out. The old story about the truth seldom goes wrong. This will show our position."

The dispatch in question told of the presence in Raton of Col. Tucker and Mrs. Platt, who was named by Mrs. Tucker in her request for an investigation of her husband's conduct by the War Department. After the investigation, the allegations charging improper conduct were dropped by the department.

MILLION DAMAGE
IN PITTSBURG FIREBlock in East End Shopping District Wiped Out.

FOUR FIREMEN INJURED

Victims Are Caught by Falling Walls Fighting Blaze.

Confagration Originates Through Series of Explosions in Clothes-Pressing Establishment—Flames Beyond Control of Entire Department for Five Hours—Twenty Girls Taken Out of Burning Building.

Pittsburg, Aug. 22.—One whole block in the East End shopping district was destroyed by fire this afternoon, and it was not until 8 o'clock to-night that the flames were gotten under control.

The loss will reach perhaps $1,000,000.

Four firemen were badly hurt by falling walls.

The fire broke out in the rear of the Enterprise Pressing Company, at 395 Center avenue. There was a series of explosions before the fire engines could reach it, and it was soon seen that the building was doomed. The firemen fought hard, a general alarm having been sounded throughout the city, but the best they could do was to confine the complete destruction to one whole city block.

There were many narrow escapes. When the flames first broke out in the Enterprise Company's plant, there was a wild scramble to escape. A few suits of clothing were thrown from the second story windows, but the flames spread so rapidly that the few men who remained in the building nearly lost their lives.

Half-million Dollar Market Burns.

The explosion of gasoline a few minutes after 3 o'clock blew out the walls of the Jackson Automobile Company building, burying the four firemen in the ruins. It was thought first that they were killed, but the men were taken out of the debris alive.

The flames spread to the garage of the Keystone Automobile Company, at 532 Baum street, and to the plant of the Crown Laundry, at 5915 Baum street.
Twenty girls were at work in the Crown Laundry when the fire started. All were gotten out safely, the girls being rescued from the windows by ladders. The flames leaped clear across the street and set on fire Pittsburg's East End market house, valued at $500,000. It was saved with difficulty.

CINCINNATI HAS BIG FIRE.

Four City Blocks Destroyed, Causing Fully $1,000,000 Damage.

Cincinnati, Aug. 22.—Fire, destroying four city blocks, broke out here to-night.
A rough estimate places the damage at more than $1,000,000.

The following places were burned: Kroger's Grocery Warehouse, Eagle White Lead Company, Edna Smelting and Refining Company, D. W. Williams Valve Company, Roberts Lumber Company, Morrison & Snodgrass Lumber Company, Burdick Wagon Company, and Krehbiel Printing Company.

Telephone, telephone, and electric light and trolley wires are down.

Several persons were injured and removed to hospitals.

WILL OPPOSE MR. FAIRBANKS

Hoosier Methodist Wants to Be Delegate to Conference.Candidates Resigns from Fight of Prohibitionists on Vice President for Serving Cocktails.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—A quiet canvass of prominent members of the Methodist Church, for a candidate against Mr. Fairbanks for delegate to the quadrennial conference of the church, at Baltimore, has resulted in bringing Samuel L. Wilson, a member of Grace M. E. Church, into the race as the candidate of the temperance element.

Ever since it became known that Fairbanks had served cocktails and three kinds of wine at the dinner given to President Roosevelt on Memorial Day, The Phalanx, the prohibition organ, has waged unceasing war on the Vice President, and has demanded that the church refuse to have him as a delegate to the quadrennial conference.

Many conscientious Methodists have become impressed with the arguments advanced in favor of other candidates, but it has been difficult to find members who would care to stand as candidates against the Vice President.

Mr. Wilson, whose long membership, strong temperance principles, and consistent life appealed to the temperance people, was finally selected, and has determined to stand for the place. He said to-day that he had been a member of the Methodist Church for twenty-six years, and had assisted in organizing a number of churches, and if his brethren desired him to go to the quadrennial conference as a delegate he would do so.

The Phalanx, which is entering the campaign for Wilson, declares that Fairbanks has disgraced the church by serving cocktails and three kinds of wine at the "Roosevelt dinner."

It adds: "Mr. Wilson does not occupy a high station in political life; is not a wealthy man, but is an intelligent, useful man, and a consistent member of that great church."

SIOUX BRAVE ENDS LIFE.

Sioux Falls, S. Dak., Aug. 22.—Red Shirt, Sioux Falls, who lived in the Sioux Reservation, is dead, because his mother-in-law would not share his home with the bride and groom and chop the wood.

Red Shirt was well known for his ju-vality, and his suicide is one of a few cases where a Sioux has committed suicide.

ROOT TRAINS HARD

Husband of Seventy-year-old Bride Arrested on Charge of Robbery.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 22.—Through a notice in the newspapers announcing his wedding, State Detective Hawkins to-day located William H. Decker, aged forty years, wanted on a charge of robbing Ralph B. Jarman, of Woodside, Del., in March, 1906.

The detective found his prisoner working in a blacksmith shop at Newcastle and took him to Dover, where he will be given a hearing.

Decker, on August 19, married Mrs.
Mary Louth, formerly of Philadelphia, at Newcastle. The bride of a few days is seventy years old and has several grandchildren. She was greatly grieved upon learning that her husband was a fugitive.

READ OUT ANTI-HEARST MEN.

Democratic Caucus Made Up of Independence League Men.Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Judge O'Brien, of the Court of Appeals, ex-Lieut. Gov. Allen C. Beach, ex-State Commissioner John N. Carlisle, and a number of other prominent Democrats, who last fall bolted Hearst, were last night read out of the caucus in their wards.

They cannot be candidates for office or delegates to any convention until they have purged themselves of their so-called treachery, by supporting a regular nominee of the Democratic party for President or governor next year.

In the city caucus last night all delegates and committeemen were last year identified with the Independence League movement.

WOODRUFF AT OYSTER BAY

Secretary Loeb Says Politician Did Not See Mr. Roosevelt.President Signs Order Dismissing Chaplain H. W. Jones from the United States Navy.Oyster Bay, Aug. 22.—Timothy L. Woodruff sailed into the harbor this afternoon and then sailed out again. According to Secretary Loeb, Mr. Woodruff did not see any one but the secretary.

Mr. Loeb said that Woodruff just happened to be sailing by in his yacht, Nomad, and seeing Oyster Bay off the starboard side decided to drop in and look up his old friends.

During his stay Mr. Woodruff took Secretary Loeb for a sail about the bay on the Nomad. It is only a short trip across the harbor to the "Emmen Roosevelt wharf," from which a path leads to Sag-amore Hill.

Mr. Woodruff sailed away on the Nomad before he could be asked any embarrassing questions.

Secretary Loeb said that Mr. Woodruff was bound for Larchmont, where he would take an automobile for New York, and catch a train for his Adirondack camp.

President Roosevelt to-day signed an order dismissing Chaplain H. W. Jones from the navy. Jones was recently found guilty by court-martial of conduct un-becomingly an officer. He is under indictment charging grand larceny in giving a check which he had no funds to meet.

ENJOINS STAGE-STUCK WIFE.

Mrs. Carrie Hawley Arrested and Jailed on Husband's Complaint.Milwaukee, Aug. 22.—For the first time on record a writ has been issued against a woman to keep her off the stage.

Mrs. Carrie Hawley was arrested Tuesday on complaint of her husband, Henry J. Hawley, who says that she has joined an opera company and proposes to leave the city; also that she has hidden their child and has sold the household goods.

She says the child is in a Catholic institution, and that she will fight the proceedings. Mrs. Hawley is in jail.

CUPID DEFIES INJUNCTIONS.

Lover Disregards Court Orders and Wins Girl of His Choice.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 22.—Defying injunctions from courts and parental resistance to his marriage to Miss Katherine Homan, James Payton wedded the young woman at Manitou, Col., according to news received to-day.

Several years ago, Payton saw a photograph of Miss Homan and promptly fell in love. It was a long time before finally he made the acquaintance of the young woman, but when he did he proposed, and was rejected. Nothing daunted, Payton a week later repeated his offer of marriage. The girl's parents here became interested, and Miss Homan swore out a warrant for Payton's arrest. The case was dismissed, and the one-sided love-making renewed.

Miss Homan sought protection of the civil courts, and Judge McVey enjoined Payton from making love. Using the telephone and mail Payton persisted, and the court enjoined him from doing this. Payton started to break injunctions right and left until the girl finally consented to marry him.

Mayor of New Haven Proposes to Use Artillery.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 22.—As the drought still continues in this State, Mayor Studley, of this city, has suggested that a battery of field artillery be used to discharge fifty rounds of ammunition in the hope of producing an atmospheric change, and consequent precipitation. To-day Richard Zastrow, a market gardener, offered $100 as the first contribution to the expense of such a cannonading.

Except for two brief thunderstorms several weeks ago, no rain has fallen in this vicinity for seventy-six days.

HANGS SELF IN GRAVEYARD.

Unable to Die, Aged Man Tries to Cut Throat While Suspended.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 22.—Frederick Dettinger, an aged German citizen, attempted to commit suicide by hanging himself this morning.

"Joe" Walker, the colored sexton at the First Presbyterian Church, while at work, looked out into the church graveyard, and the ghastly sight of a human form suspended from the limb of a cedar tree met his gaze.

Dettinger, unable to strangle himself, was slashing the right side of his neck with a pocket-knife.

The old man says that his troubles are purely domestic. He recently married a young and comely woman against the wishes of his family.

STORY SHOOTS SELF

Artist-Yachtsman Ends Life in Country Home.

WAS ONCE CURED OF INSANITY

Recurrence of Mental Troubles May Be Reason for Death—Was Brother of Julian Story, Divorced Husband of Emma Eames—Strangled from His Wife, Who Is in Spain.New York, Aug. 22.—Marion Story, the miniature painter, and brother of Julian Story, the artist, and also well known as an enthusiastic yachtsman and exhibitor in the horse shows, shot himself in the head with a revolver in the library of his home on his estate, Brook Farm, near Port Chester, to-night.

He died before medical attention could reach him.

Though little could be learned to-night of the details of the tragedy, the servants said that Mr. Story was alone in the house when he shot himself. He had come back from his office in New York early in the afternoon, and had dined alone. Shortly after dinner, he went into the library. At about 8 o'clock, the servants on the floor below heard a shot, and running to the library, they saw Mr.
Story stretched on the floor below his chair, with the revolver just beyond his finger tips.

Doctors were telephoned for, but before they arrived Mr. Story was dead. Mr.
Story had not been long back from Europe, where he went in search of health.
His wife, it is said, has been estranged from her husband for some time, and is now believed to be in Spain.

It is the opinion of friends of the dead man that he had never fully recovered from the attack of insanity which overtook him a year ago. At that time he was committed to the Bloomingdale Asylum. His stay there was brief, and he went directly to Florida upon being discharged as cured. He left Florida for Europe about a month later.

Overwork in Wall street and business worryes were attributed by his friends as the cause for Mr. Story's temporary insanity.

In April last, Julian Story, the brother of Marion, was sued for a divorce by Emma Eames, the opera singer. At the time the report of the disagreement between the artist
